

I SEE IMMIGRANTS

Immigrants! they're everywhere; ya can't walk the streets without stumblin' into 'em. Ya can't go to a restaurant without hearin' their gibberish in the kitchen. Why can't they learn American; if they're going to live here they should talk American. I have no problem with 'em washin' my dishes or makin' my bed when I crash at the Motel 6, but they should do it by the law. Bottom line, they should try harder to fit into our way of doin' things in this great country of ours.

Sure this is the land of the free and all, but ya know what they say 'freedom ain't free.' So were do they get off just strollin' into our country like its some free lunch kitchen. Then they stick to their own, and continue to talk their gibberish, and do their thing. How are we suppose to know what their up to when they won't speak American, and they all hide in our slums. You never know who is a terrorist these days, they could be poisonin' our food or somethin'. So, the way I see it we need to keep tabs on 'em. Make 'em talk American, that way they can watch excellent TV shows like the Special Report, American Idol, or Survivor, and then they be understandin' how wonderful and great our way of things are. Then they'd be upstandin' Americans like me.

So if they're here illegal like, they should be punished like the thugs they are. We can't just let them into our country and do nothin about it. Yeah, maybe they do take all the jobs we don't want to do, but how suspicious is that? There is somethin' obviously wrong with 'em if that is all they want to do, is take our crummy jobs. Instead of givin' these jobs to gibberish speaking immigrants, lets remove some these silly laws preventing my kids from contributin' to this great country. Think about it, what a great solution to the problem, instead of havin' some immigrant washin' dishes at Chuck's BBQ Grill, we could have kids in elementary school washing the dishes and learning the lesson of contributin' to this system called capitalism. I mean they spend most their time playin' anyhow.

I say let's build the biggest wall we can to keep them out, let's spend a wad of cash to imprison the ones who are here, and put the li'l ones to work. Then, and only then, America will remain America. We're not the United States of Mexico! My grandparents didn't come here from England and France, so that ignorant immigrants could take away their god given right to be an American.

A concerned American, addition, these generic versions have treated over half of the HIV-infected people in developing countries. In 1995, under pressure from American pharmaceutical corporations the WTO ruled that India's patent law was to be overturned. We as Americans are lucky that pharmaceutical companies are based in America. And that they are dedicated to providing quality and low cost treatment for us Americans.... No wait....

I am blessed to be an American. I am blessed that the WTO works to make larger profits for multinational corporations based in the US. I am blessed that the environmental impacts of my consumerism do not take place in my back yard. I am blessed that the low wage and labor standards in developing countries provide me with low prices. I am blessed that I do not see the human impact of globalization. God Bless America. •

RED PILL SAFELY BEHIND BARS

In a press conference held at Wayne Aspinall Federal Building, FBI Special Agent in Charge, Andrew Dephelin, announced the indictments and arrests of the entire Red Pill. "A grand jury has indicted all editors and contributors of the Red Pill on charges of terrorism." Dephelin cited the USA PATRIOT Act's definition of terrorism where a terrorist is anyone who "appear[s] to be... acting to influence the policy of a government by intimidation or coercion."

Dephelin stated that small self-publishing groups like the Red Pill pose a serious threat to the efficiency of the government in passing laws designed to protect Americans from terrorist threats. "By discouraging the passing of laws like the USA PATRIOT Act and opposing domestic spying activities, they are helping radical Islam and are thereby terrorists in themselves."

When asked if they were terrorists or simply citizens participating in activities protected by the First Amendment, Dephelin replied that while publishing a small alternative newspaper in and of itself is not terrorism, one must consider the words used. "Had they decided to write about the equally important news of who won the Superbowl they would not be in jail. Instead, they chose to write about current events outside of the parameters set by corporate media. There is a reason you don't see Fox News or CNN being charged with these serious crimes; they are on our side." •

WELCOME TO AMERICA, LAND OF THE FREE™

Welcome to America, Land of the Free™. Where happiness can be bought, and dreams can come true. A bourgeois utopia where the rich are worshipped and the poor are nigh invisible. Come experience the crown of human civilization, only in America.

Here in America, Land of the Free™ we make time for the finer things in life. Whether shooting the breeze with old friends on one of our many golf courses, or enjoying the magical sunsets of Chesapeake Bay on your brand new yacht, America provides luxury other countries only dream of. Perhaps shopping is more to your taste. If so, come lose yourself in our consumer paradise. Here in America you can buy everything from artesian water bottled in the Swiss Alps to million dollar sports cars. Deck yourself out in the latest designer clothing and show the world what makes you unique. If it can be bought, you can be sure you can buy it in America.

Come live the American Dream™. You only get one life to live, why not treat yourself in the way only Americans can? Sit down and relax while I paint you a picture, a picture of the world seen through the American Dream™. You wake up in the morning to the sound of your maid cooking breakfast for your family. Walking downstairs you grab a cup of coffee and kiss your Botox sponsored wife, smiling as you watch your 2.5 kids getting ready to leave for their Ivy League prep school. After a quick meal you hop into your brand new Mercedes SL and drive to work, pausing to reflect upon your beautiful home nestled in a 100% Caucasian gated community. Arriving at work you join the movers and shakers of the finance industry, your eye on that half-million dollar commission that will allow you for us as Americans to care about. For example, in Brazil, the Amazon is being depleted faster than ever before to clear land for beef and soy bean production. However, both of these are produced almost exclusively for export, giving nothing back to the community which produced them. But, thank God for my Big Mac and Boca Burger, whichever you prefer.

Our need to consume at “everyday low prices” has created a corporate race to find the cheapest labor markets and lowest cost of production. This forces developing countries to lower their wage and labor standards to allow major corporations to move into their markets. This is great for my kids because they receive a free toy with every kids’ meal, however, the kids who produce those toys can rarely afford meals for themselves.

As if the $36 BILLION profit made by EXXON in the past year was not enough, the WTO goes out of its way to provide the multi-national corporations countless avenues to keep increasing their corporate profits. The benefits afforded to the US allow us to ignore or forget the global impacts of this organization. The WTO, and its alliance with multinational corporations, have used its power to make private profits the highest priority. From agriculture to pharmaceuticals, profit for large corporations is the name of the game.

The WTO has reduced the tariff protection for many developing countries. This is great for us in the US! However, the WTO has not put a limit to government subsidies for large agri-business. The US and EU spend about $380 billion every year on subsidies. This allows developed countries like ours to sell its products in developing countries for less than the cost of production; thus, undercutting local production and forcing many local farmers off of their land and into other jobs. . . Immigration anyone?

Pharmaceutical companies in the US have lobbied hard for their own patent laws to be enforced by the WTO. The Trade Related Aspects of International Trade (TRIPs) became international law in 1995. This agreement prevents poor and developing countries from manufacturing or purchasing generic versions of life-saving drugs while they are still under the minimum 20 year patent. India had a law allowing for the production of life-saving generic medicines without paying a license fee. The competition from these generic versions of drugs has been “largely responsible for the global reduction in prices of AIDS drugs by as much as 98%” (Global Trade Watch). In

EXCLUSIVE TO THE BLUE PILL: DICK CHENEY SPEAKS!

I am pleased to be involved with the Blue Pill. It is the one trade mag that truly seems to understand me.

Just don't print any crap about prairie dogs and we'll get along just fine.

First, I should let you know about my nickname. All of my friends (both of them) call me "Big Dick" Cheney. Let's just say I'm not the kind of guy who would get laughed at in a locker room.

Just for the record, my assistant, George W. Bush has a nickname, too. He's known as Speedy Gonzales with the ladies. There's a reason that Laura Bush looks like an extra terrestrial on Xanax, poor thing.

Fat rich white guys are in. How else do we explain Rush Limbaugh? Fat, rich guys with big wankers, like myself, are especially in. You really think that I have an internal pacemaker defibrillator in my chest? Ha, fool! It's a button operated vibrator in my John Henry that I zap at will. Keep doing your Kegel exercises you loser guys, you'll never catch up with me. I'm the Ron Jeremy of politics!

Now I used to think that George and Condi had a Thomas Jefferson/Sally Heming thing going on, but the only thing she truly loves are shoes. Imelda Marcos, look out.

Rummy Rumsfeld, now there's a character. He was a squirrely little ex-college wrestler when we first met. We sparred a few times, and I must say that it always left me strangely invigorated, especially when I pinned him.

So, you should all know about that idiot I shot in Texas. Yes, of course I was having sex with his wife, have been for years. But on this trip, he insisted on coming along with his wife on her "hunting" trip, hunting quail. Hell, it wasn't even quail season, but how the hell should I know that? Do I look like a lawyer?

So this guy, who is a big time donor, makes one too many cocky stories about me being a "boner donor" to his wife. I got tired of his whiny-ass bitching and I wheeled around and plugged him.

I was going to go over to the ditch to piss in his face, and the next thing I know, the Secret Service swept ME away in the ambulance. I have no idea what happened in the next twelve hours, but boy, those Oxycontin tablets Rush Limbaugh gave me sure aren't for sissies.

When I woke up, I was in bed with two fourteen year old Malaysians girls in my underground lair, complements of Dyncorps. I told them they should open a full time sex slave office and call it "Wee Pikum Yung." They all got a good laugh at that, but truth be known, they have their hands full running pogeit bait through Eastern Europe.

So, for the next three days, Karl Rove and Andy Card are flipping out about my "secrecy" and how I supposedly embarrassed the "president." What a joke. That Texas clown couldn't pour piss out of a boot with the instructions printed on the heel. But what the hell, we all have our little roles to play, so I jumped on the dog and pony and did the Brit Hume interview on Fox News. Enough said.

These mainstream media clowns are just, well, clowns after all. I spend more money from my annual Halliburton bonus on cocaine to anesthetics the head of my penis during sex than they make in any two good years. Thanks again to the Blue Pill, and yes, fellows, the check cleared.

GOD BLESS AMERICA AND THE WTO!

God bless America. And thank God that America is so blessed. We are blessed because, as Americans, our children can and will consume over 15 times what the average Indian child will consume by the time he is age 18. We are truly blessed because, as Americans, we can turn a blind eye to the environmental impacts of our consumption. As Americans, we can refuse to see the all too real human impact of our consumption.

As Americans, we can use the World Trade Organization (WTO) to our benefit, while turning a blind eye to its global impact.

Americans can turn a blind eye to the environmental impact of our consumption, simply because it does not happen in the United States. Destruction of the environment happens in countries which are too poor and unimportant to vacation in one of America's private island getaways with style. In America, Land of the Free™ life is more than reality.

In these troubled times, people of our caliber must never take security for granted. Across the world the dispossessed and malcontents are rioting and causing all sorts of unpleasantness. With uncertainty looming ever larger over our heads, only America is fit to safeguard the treasures of our long struggle. With an entertainment industry that rivals the GNP of many competing nations, feel safe in the knowledge that more Americans vote on American Idol than in our congressional elections. Only in America have the masses been bred to such apathy and complacency. And, if worse comes to worst, America, Land of the Free™, has the largest military in history to keep our economic system in place. Sporting the newest, high tech weapons our police and servicemen are here for your peace of mind. Tanks, helicopters, jet fighters, sound cannons, microwave guns, all these are ready at a moments notice in case the proles get wise. Not to be forgotten is the time we've invested sowing seeds of discord in the lower classes. Watch as they feverishly argue the morality of gay marriage while our machinations of control continue unopposed. All that combined with our monopoly over the major media outlets and it becomes clear: your power and affluence are better served here in America than anywhere else.

But don't just take my words for it. Come visit one of our illustrious country clubs and ask the men who know. Politicians, CEOs, and bankers all make America, Land of the Free™ their homes and know better than anyone else how great it is. America, over 8,900,000 millionaires served. •
